Lincoln and Peace.

The New York News inclines to believe, that although the negotiations at Ningara, closed at a stage where Mr. Linconx stands branded as a bloody fanatic, Advices from Upper Maryland represent there is yet a possibility that these negotiations are not finally concluded.

The News argues that Liscoin, unlike his deluded followers throughout the country, is fully advised of the desperate state of the military situation. He knows that 'unconditional surrender Grast's is a failure, and that Washington is in more danger to-day of capture and sack than Richmond; and that Atlanta, if taken, to-morrow, would bear little or no weight in the final result of this bloody conflict.

The News thus concludes "The failure of the campaign, the break down of the currency, the impracticability of the draft, the otter inadequacy of volunteer-ing, are denotings not lost on Mr. Lincoln -The Radicale baving roken from his leash, while the Shoddy-men are his obedient servaute in any event, what course that he should throw immed with his follow ing into the arms of the millions who cry that in which, white declaring the war com
